NOTE DECLARES GIRL A PRISONER OF CHATTAHOOCHEE

do from now till Saturday, and we ought to have a great big bonfire out at work, and to go over this territory with a thesaurus, until if the girl is in these words we will find her.

The Brookline police, meanwhile, have been heartily active. A most careful search has been made of the Test Drive section, Pittsfield, Mass., Hammond's, Pond, Jamaica Pond, the Arnold Arboretum, Coney Hill and Chestnut Hill.

While the hunt through the Chestnut Hill woods, where the girl was frequently told long walks, was started today by the Boy Scouts, a search of sufficient scope to locate the girl, the proverbial needle in a haystack will be undertaken Saturday. If she is not found between now and that time.

The Brookline police themselves have gone over a large tract of woods in the vicinity of Hammond street, Brookline, and the Chestnut Hill reservoir, but with no success.

OTHEL SEES CHUM

Miss Marie K. Brown of No. 72 21st road, Newtonville, a teacher of music in the Newton public schools, is a close personal friend of Miss Arlin, according to friends of both girls who room at the above address. Miss Brown is reported to be much worried over the disappearance of her friend, and is said to be conducting a personal search for the missing girl. Miss Brown's friends said today:

"Miss Brown has not been herself since January 8. Miss Brown has been away from her room, and has been in her search for her chum. She was not at home Tuesday night and obtained a leave of absence from her school duties.

"Since leaving her Miss Brown has called up several friends by telephone from different points and inquired if they had received any word from her or any word from Miss Arlin. Any word the AMERICAN might receive that would be a clue to Miss Arlin's whereabouts would be gratefully received by Miss Brown, as she is nearly distracted by Miss Arlin's prolonged absence.

"Miss Brown first became acquainted with Miss Arlin in the AMERICAN office in Cambridge, N. H. Miss Arlin was then a teacher, and the two girls were very devoted to each other, and their tastes were similar. For some time past Miss Arlin had appeared to be tired out from her work and was unable to rest, and her mind was in such a nervous state."

LAST TO SEE GIRL
Mrs. C. H. Hubbard, the girl's landlady, at No. 47 Marlton street, said: "I am positive Miss Arlin wore the clothes given in the description published in the paper. She had no such any kind of jewelry on her person. I saw her as she went out for the last time, and I packed her things afterwards."

A young woman, who declined to give her name, came to the AMERICAN office and told this story:

"Last Monday, between 8 and 9.30 in the evening, I came to Boston from Worcester on the electric car. When I got into the car at Worcester a woman answering the description of Miss Arlin was seated near the rear of the car.

"As soon as I got seated this young woman, who had the appearance of being very refined and intelligent, stared at me repeatedly and began to color up some. I was at first very embarrassed, but after looking at the girl I was satisfied from what I read that it was the Arlin girl.

"She wore a long gray coat with a stripe in it, a dark dress and a black hat with black trimming and a black plume. She carried a brown leather suit case. This girl and I sat for twenty-three years and was at least five feet seven inches tall.

"She left the car at White's Corner, near Framingham, from which she could have taken an electric car for Hudson, Marlboro and other places.

"This girl was traveling alone and evidently was under considerable excitement from the way she watched me when I was looking at her."

Suffragists Refuse to War on Democrats

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—There is to be no war against the Democratic party by the National American Women Suffrage Association because the house rules committee declined to recommend a special committee on suffrage. This was made clear today by a letter to President Wilson by Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman of the congressional committee of the association. She assures the Democrats that the congressional committee on woman suffrage does not have the united support of the suffragists in this plan.

WILHELM TO WILSON Direct Message from Kaiser WIRELESS GREETING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Direct communication by wireless between Germany and the United States, without any relaying, has been established, and the first message ever transmitted by this direct means was sent by Emperor William to President Wilson. It was as follows:

President Wilson, Washington:
I send you my best greeting that the wireless communication will become a new link between our countries.

The Los Angeles police authorities announced that they were trying to discover the identity of the writer of the kidnapping note. Chief of Police Sebastian said this failed because he would himself negotiate for the return of the millionaire and the payment of the ransom.

Today's news nowhere attracted greater interest than in New England, where Mr. Clark is widely known. He is a native of Bangor, Me., a graduate of Harvard and has long been a familiar figure in North Shore circles. Mr. Clark disappeared suddenly on the night of January 16. He was last seen at Santa Barbara, Calif., after sending his wife off on a train. It was then believed he had committed suicide by leaping from a pier into the ocean. This theory was based on the finding of his hat floating a mile north of Santa Barbara.

Mr. Clark was commander of the Eastern Yacht Club of Boston during 1910 and 1911. At that time the club entertained the Spanish sloop boat clubmen at the Marlborough club-house at Marlhead.

Mr. Clark also in ten years ago received several medals in the international races with the Germans. He named the three boats he had after the city in which he had made his wealth. He owned a magnificent steel schooner yacht, Emerald, 130 feet long. He had a motor launch, 40 feet long. He had a motor launch, 40 feet long. He had a motor launch, 40 feet long.

Mr. Clark was a member of the Eastern Yacht Club, the Marlborough club, and the Beverly Yacht Club.

Favor $2,000,000 in West End Bonds

Arthur T. Ballantine, counsel for the West End Street Railway, appeared before the Public Service Commission today to urge the railway's petition to issue $2,000,000 worth of negotiable bonds to retire a similar issue next March. There was no opposition and the petition was taken under advisement.

SEEK 'FRIENDS' OFFER REWARD GIRLS IN BOSTON

Police Inspector LaMothe of New Bedford came to Boston today with sixteen-year old Edith Sharpley, the girl who was arrested here with her chum, Rose Courtneyma, while they were spending $500 to be a lounge-mop belonging to Rose's mother.

Mrs. Courtneyma came up with the inspector and the Sharpley girl, to aid in a search of several young men in the South End who are said to have helped the girls spend $500 that is lacking from the bankroll.

Miss Courtneyma, who went into hysteria when she and Edith Sharpley were arrested on Clarendon park, is in serious condition in New Bedford, having relapsed into acute hysteria at the outcome of her adventures.

The girls enjoyed themselves greatly in Boston for a few days, buying clothes and furs, having taxi rides and dining at high-priced restaurants.

Mrs. Courtneyma complained to the New Bedford police, who sent word to Boston. After their arrest the girls were sent back New Bedford.

No Clew to Men Who Stabbed Bosworth

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Thomas J. Bosworth of Salem, Mass., teacher at the Chicago Latin school, a fashionable private institution, who was mysteriously stabbed Tuesday night, was in a critical condition. The wounds in his neck and back, doctors said, may cause death.

The police have succeeded in finding no clew to the identity of the teacher's assailant. Bosworth was able to describe to them a white man and a negro whom he said he suspected of the act of robbing the school office.

Three Killed in Train Collision

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 28.—Round-trip train No. 10, operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad, crashed into an engine and caboose on the main line early today and was wrecked. Three men were killed and several injured. The dead are:

John J. McLaughlin, conductor of freight crew, Youngwood, Pa.
Harry Leichter, brakeman of freight crew, Youngwood, Pa.
C. C. Parnell, trainman.

Hold Runaway Maine Girl in New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Eighteen-year-old Susan Williams Kerr of Sanford, Me., was detained today by Magistrate Reynolds in Brooklyn at the request of her parents. The girl ran away from school in Maine. According to the story told in court, Miss Kerr and a girl chum, Miss Emma Williams, were sent to a school in New York City. They were long enough to learn bookkeeping and stenography, and then decided they would go to New York and earn their own living. The run away happened September 2.

$70,000 LOSS BY GREAT FIRE IN GLOUCESTER

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 28.—One fireman was reported killed and five others were injured and a property loss of $70,000 was caused today by a fire which swept through an entire block of the retail district and threatened the entire business section of this city. The fire was the most disastrous in thirty or more years.

Three of the injured are: Algonquin H. Skinner, leg and hip crushed.
Walter Burke, internally injured.
John Fitzgerald, head badly gnashed.

All belong to English N. H. Later it was reported that a German had been buried under a brick wall. A score of men at once began to dig for the supposed victims.

The stores destroyed were: L. C. Nelson department store, Barton's department store, Marchess National Bank building, branch office of the Boston American, Western Union office, Barton's store annex on Manchester street, Platten's cafe and Silber's tailor shop.

The walls of the new $500,000 Amoskeag National Bank building, located next to the burned hotel store, were cracked by the heat. This damage is considered serious.

A general alarm was sounded and help summoned from Concord. That the flames did not sweep over a greater area, was due to the heroic work of the crew of the Amoskeag Corporation steamer. Their work stopped the flames at Knowlton's, which were partially burned.

The fire was marked by several explosions. The worst came when the front wall of the Melton store was driven outward by an explosion of hot air. This sent three leaders from which flames were fanning the flames to the street. All were buried under the demolished wall.

The block in which the fire started is bounded by Elm, Hanover and Manchester streets. It is the heart of the retail shopping district.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Mayor Charles S. Ashley of New Bedford, Mass., today appeared before the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors and protested against the proposed bridge over the Sagadahoc river, which would cut off the city from the water.

What Shall I Do?

Some day you must face that question—perhaps tomorrow. An accident happens. You get a jagged wound, a rusty nail thrust, any one of a thousand things.

You know if it is not quickly attended to it will become inflamed and the danger of blood poisoning then means something to you. In every such emergency your first thought should be

Dioxogen

Better to apply it a thousand times when there is no real danger than to go without it once at the critical moment. The best and cheapest insurance you can buy is a bottle of Dioxogen.

Why Dioxogen?

Because it is the one pure Peroxide of Hydrogen. It purifies by setting free Oxygen—nature's own greatest purifier.

Ask for Dioxogen by name and protect yourself against common, cheap peroxide, containing Acetanilid as a "preservative."

Think carefully when you see Acetanilid on a bottle—the Government prohibits its use unless the exact quantity is plainly stated on the label. It is used to make cheap peroxide KEEP—but it also makes it rank and gives it a disagreeable taste and smell.

It is important that you ask for Dioxogen BY NAME

The Oakland Chemical Co., 20 Front St., New York.

Dioxogen is always sold in a sealed container for your protection. See that this container is sealed when you buy.

COL. GOETALS ACCEPTS CANAL GOVERNORSHIP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—President Wilson today sent to the Senate the name of Colonel George W. Goethals to be first Governor of the Panama Canal Zone. Colonel Goethals will assume office on April 1.

Secretary of War Garrison had previously announced Colonel Goethals' acceptance of the office.

"I am not prepared at this time to give out the text of Colonel Goethals' acceptance," said Secretary Garrison, "but it was full and complete."

There was no mention in it of the police commissioner of New York and I don't anticipate that Colonel Goethals will accept that post at any time in the near future."

A salary of $15,000 a year for Colonel Goethals as Governor of the zone is asked in a bill introduced today by Representative Britten of Massachusetts.

LODGE STIRS INQUIRY ON JAP. MEXICO PLANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal envoy to Mexico, has been instructed to report to Washington all facts bearing on the reported understanding between President Huerta's government and Japan.

This action is said to be due to a discussion precipitated by Senator Lodge when the President met the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday night. According to general report here Senator Lodge is convinced that Japan is anxious for a naval base in Magdalena Bay, and believes that prompt action is necessary to prevent such a grant by the Mexican government.

Administrative officials believe that Mexico is getting arms from Japan and that this is a serious matter. The government has cognizance of the dealings of its merchants with agents of Huerta.

MISS ELLIOTT, TOO, SHINES IN 'MEN AND MICE'

A large and satisfied audience witnessed a featured production of "Men and Mice" by Madeleine Lorette Ryley, at the Shubert Theatre last evening.

This charming comedy drama not only gave the star, 3. Furbush-Roberts, who is completing his farewell tour, an opportunity to display his consummate art, but provided a role in which the charming wife, daughter, Elliott, could shine as a real co-star. "Men and Mice," like many of the English stars' favorite comedies, preaches a powerful sermon of love and duty. Mark Embury, a philanthropist and scientist on the steady side of life, meets a charming young woman, but falls in love with her guardian's supercilious nephew, Captain George Lovell. It is thus that "the best laid plans of mice and men go astray." In the end Embury realizes the wisdom of a marriage with his ward and given her to the nephew together with a lovely house and garden.

Furbush-Roberts played the difficult role with his customary force and dignity, never stooping to sentimentalism. He lavishly raised his voice before the ordinary tones in the strong denunciation scene with his nephew, yet not a syllable was lost on the audience. Miss Elliott as Peggy, the foundling, had a wide range of tones to portray. In the opening act when Fred, from the asylum she played the awkward and doubtful but obedient child to perfection. In the second act her girlishness and pretensions were a delight. In the third when she is suddenly transformed into a loving, but jealous woman who stoops to deceit to elude the man she loves, she displays her command of the emotions. In the final act she is the penitent, grateful woman who is ready to sacrifice herself to become the wife of the man who has done everything in the world for her. The curtain goes down with the stage manager's announcement that the happy couple are to be married.

The comedy gave the audience splendid support. Miss Scotty-Lewis, as a gallant lover and Frank Lovell, as the blustering, pompous neighbor, did some splendid acting. Adeline Bourne was Johanna, the buttery, young wife of the neighbor whose infatuation for Captain Lovell led to most of the complications of the play.

"Tonight the plays will be 'The Passing of the Third Floor Back' and 'The Reckoning of Judas'."

LEGISLATORS CONDEMN JAIL AS DRUG CURE

The commission appointed last year to investigate drunkenness in Massachusetts today presented the results of its investigation to the Legislature.

The commission finds that imprisonment is the worst possible recourse in cases of drunkenness, and that it should be used only as a last resort. Fines are recommended where paid by the drunkard himself, so that they do not fall upon his family. The commission recommends examination of drunkards to see if hospital treatment such as that at Foxboro will not perhaps cure them of the habit.

A wide development of the probation service of the State is urged. In addition, large measures of prevention are favored. The commission also recommends that the State should make more use of its existing powers. The practice of "treating" by the house, it is urged, should be barred. Druggists should be prevented from selling liquor as a beverage. A widespread educational campaign to teach children in the schools the fundamental facts about alcohol is suggested.

The most important part of the report, dealing with the methods of punishment under existing laws, reads in part as follows: "Imprisonment for non-payment of fine, a practice often defeating the ends of justice, should be materially reduced if not entirely displaced by the suspension of license. The practice of sending a man to jail for a week or more will honor the prisoner, but will not usually reform him of his habit. Meanwhile, the prisoner may have forfeited his job—the chief source of self-respect—and must face a discouraging period of unemployment upon his return from prison. His innocent family often suffer more than he.

The commission recommends that the State should make more use of its existing powers. The practice of "treating" by the house, it is urged, should be barred. Druggists should be prevented from selling liquor as a beverage. A widespread educational campaign to teach children in the schools the fundamental facts about alcohol is suggested.

HUNDREDS JOIN SUNSHINE CLUB; GIVE MOTTOES

"Timothy W. Good, city treasurer of Cambridge, and James R. Vaher head the list of Sunshine Club applicants received today. The membership of which is now running into the thousands.

Following the visiting endorsement of the movement by Governor Walsh Mayor Fitzgerald, the success of the AMERICAN 1914 Sunshine Club became an assured fact.

"That the club membership men will reach the desired 400,000 mark cannot be questioned. And what is equally important, the optimistic tone running through all the applications shows that these joining the new movement really mean business.

TIMOTHY W. GOOD, city treasurer of Cambridge said: "Conditions in the industrial world today are far better than they were three months ago. That still more prosperous times are coming cannot be questioned. The Sunshine Club presents will hasten that day, as men as Mr. and Mrs. Evergreen become obligated into the club membership.

JAMES R. VAHER, THE AMERICAN 1914 Sunshine Club, is an excellent example of a good thing that the membership ought to include every right-thinking person in the community.

Personally, I know of no greater cause for happiness, locally, than to be found in the nation's best interests. The Sunshine Club presents will hasten that day, as men as Mr. and Mrs. Evergreen become obligated into the club membership.

BULGARS' WOES TO AMERICAN BY AUTHORESS

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Georgia King Lewis, whose book on the Balkans, "Child Times in Turkey," reveals a wide knowledge of the Bulgarians, sent a message today to the London bureau of the AMERICAN, congratulating it upon its publication in support of the desecrated religious and whitewashed American and the following, written especially for the AMERICAN and gleaned from first-hand information and investigation.

By MRS. GEORGIA KING LEWIS.

I spent considerable time among the Bulgarians recently when they fled from the land of the Turk, when their villages were destroyed, when, after many outrages, they barely escaped with their lives.

I lived with these peasants, worked with them and for them, sharing and feeling thousands in the village, when the government has distributed them.

These tragic afflictions, which, I think, the American people completely know by heart. As I think of their gratitude to the American people and English who have risked their lives for them, and their simple faith in the future of their country, I feel that I am not worthy to talk of the responsibilities which brought them to this misery, the women and children, are not responsible. The women have been doing men's work in the fields and home. They have given up their husbands and come for what they believe to be God's cause.

They deserve our help, if for nothing else, for the long misrule and unparalleled cruelty following the Berlin treaty.

Julia Arthur's Father Dead.

Mrs. Benjamin P. Cheney, who before her marriage was Miss Julia Arthur, the actress, was notified today of the death of her father, Thomas Lewis.

More Funds Come in for the Relief of Bulgarians

Is the Fundamental Principle of Our Panama Policy to Be Surrender?

Members of the Senate who talked with President Wilson about foreign affairs came away with the impression that he contemplated a complete surrender to Great Britain in the matter of exempting the coastwise vessels of the United States from Panama Canal tolls.

Disheartening and disappointing as that impression is, it doubtless correctly expresses the President's attitude.

In foreign affairs his guidon is the white flag, and his battle cry "We surrender!"

Of the four hundred million dollars spent in constructing the Panama Canal none was furnished by Great Britain. Of the hundreds of lives that paid tribute to the pestilential conditions, later corrected by an American, none were those of Britons—if we except the negroes from Barbados and Jamaica who represent John Bull's chief contribution to the Canal he now seeks to dominate. For the engineering skill and executive ability necessary to prosecute the great work we did not turn to England.

In brief, the British contribution to the Canal was infinitesimal—its pretensions to control it infinite.

The question of the right of the United States to fix the tolls according to its will, provided equal terms are made with all nations, has been too thoroughly debated to need reiteration now. There are no British or other foreign vessels in our coasting trade; there can be none so long as our present law stands. To exempt United States coasters from tolls is no discrimination against Great Britain, for there are no British vessels plying between our coast ports to be discriminated against.

But President Wilson is getting ready the white flag. More of a federalist, an aristocrat, than a democrat, British opinion is all-powerful with him. And, accepting that fact, his action on tolls may presage a more perilous policy later.

The section of the Canal treaty upon which this issue hangs is this:

"The Canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation or its citizens or subjects, in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic or otherwise. Such conditions and charges of traffic should be just and equitable."

Mark that the United States was the nation that MADE the law.

To a courageous and patriotic President who will construe it in the light of reason and his country's interests that section need give no trouble. But President Wilson, who has been construing the anti-trust law in the light of sweet reason, when that operated to the advantage of trust magnates, insists that this shall be construed literally.

To what does that lead us? Literally the clause does not authorize us to close the Canal to the warships of our enemy in time of war. Of course this sounds ridiculous, but it is no more so than the proposition that we cannot permit tolls to our vessels which do not compete with foreign ships.

Taken literally, in the event of a war with Great Britain, we could not bar the Canal to the warships of a neutral Power—Japan, let us say, or Germany, even though we were morally certain that after having used the Canal to place its ships advantageously its neutrality would vanish in the smoke of its cannon.

Far fetched, you may say, is the apprehension of such a situation. Not at all. It has already been discussed in foreign publications. If President Wilson sets a precedent of surrender on the Canal tolls question it will weaken the hands of some successor who may have the larger issue to grapple with.

The Panama policy should be a vigorous American policy from the beginning. Beginning with a surrender inspires doubt of the end.

To Prevent Frauds Through Advertising

That is the Duty of Government, National State and Local

Copyright, 1914, by the State Council

What the country needs is OPPORTUNITY for those willing to render service, and discouragement for those that live by fraud. This applies to the big banker who ruins a railroad by usurious charges, and to the miserable quack who ruins the health of his dupes by lying promises.

The duty of government is to stop ALL DISHONESTY as far as possible, not merely the dishonesty that steals a pocketbook or a loaf of bread.

A very good sign is the present effort to discourage CHEATING THROUGH PUBLIC ADVERTISING.

The national Government can reach the fraudulent advertiser through prosecution based on the use of the mails to defraud. But there should be a more direct and simple way of punishing and discouraging the advertising frauds and all other fraudulent money making.

To publish a false claim KNOWN TO BE FALSE, and thus to obtain or seek to obtain money under false pretenses, should result in heavy fine and imprisonment—imprisonment preferably.

Fraud through advertising is a kind of fraud that can readily be detected, SINCE IT MUST BE PUBLISHED.

It should be the duty of district attorneys, Federal officials, medical bodies and others with knowledge and responsibility to fight such frauds everywhere in the country.

The people are awake to the fact that government is not merely a machine invented to impose taxation, fight the enemy and arrest the pickpocket.

Government means the expression of the national intelligence and of the national will.

The national intelligence demands rigid enforcement of the laws against extortion. And an excellent beginning can be made in the scrutinizing of advertising columns.
